FULL COMMITTEE URGES MILLER BE CONFIRMED

JUDICIARY BODY WOULD DISMISS CHARGE BROUGHT

Committee Headed by Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota Submits its Report

ACTION SAID UNANIMOUS

Second Report of Judiciary Subcommittee is Accepted, Chairman Announces

Washington, Jan. 30.—By the Associated Press.—The nomination of Andrew Miller to be federal judge for the North Dakota district was ordered reported favorably to the senate today by the judiciary committee. The action, Chairman Nelson said, was unanimous and based on a new report by a sub-committee which recommended that charges against Mr. Miller be dismissed.

There are 17 members of the full judiciary committee which reported with recommendation that Mr. Miller's nomination by President Harding be confirmed. The chairman of the committee is Knute Nelson, of Minnesota, who sat in at the sub-committee hearing Friday. The membership of the committee includes: Senators Knute Nelson, Minnesota; William Dillingham, Vermont; Frank Brandegee, Connecticut; William Borah, Idaho; LeBaron B. Cobb, Rhode Island; Geo. Norris, Nebraska; Frank Kellogg, Minnesota; Charles A. Culberson, Texas; Lee Overman, North Carolina; Henry F. Ashurst, Arizona; John Shields, Tennessee; Thomas Walsh, Montana; William King, Utah; Richard Ernst, Kentucky.

It was reported in the Miller opposition circles in Bismarck that former Senator Gronna had persuaded Senator La Follette to make a speech on the floor of the senate against the confirmation and that efforts were being made to line up other senators for a fight on the floor of the senate.

STORM CAUSES EASTERN TIE-UP

One of Most Severe Storms in History is Reported

Washington, Jan. 30.—More than 24 hours of continuous snow had Saturday night covered the middle Atlantic section, with Washington as a center, to a depth of a foot to nearly 30 inches; caused the suspension of practically all business activity; disrupted telephone and shut most of the population in their homes.

The storm, which weather bureau officials said was one of the most severe in history, exceeded in the depth of snowfall only by the long remembered blizzard of February, 1899, was moving slowly last night up the coast from its position during the day.

Reports to the weather bureau showed that the Carolinas, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia were bearing the brunt of the storm and receiving the heaviest snowfall. Virginia cities accumulated to only an inch or so of snow and trees of rare occurrence, were buried in many cases to the depth of a foot while northern portions of the Carolinas still were blanketed with a fall that began Thursday.

Washington, however, appeared to be the center of the heavy fall, the weather bureau measurements taken late in the day showing the depth to be closely approaching two and a half feet.

The national capital with its heavy and constantly increasing blanket was virtually paralyzed as to activities of all kinds in much the same manner as in 1899 when a lighter fall, but accompanied by rain and sleet forced abandonment of elaborate plans for the inauguration of President Taft.

The snow fall in Washington practically halted governmental activity and had its effect in an international way by causing cancellation of two scheduled armament conference meetings.

Thousands of government employees walked to work and many others living in outlying or suburban sections stayed at home.

Congress also was affected by the storm, only 49 senators answering the roll call and a bare handful of house members reported. Both house and senate adjourned after brief sessions.

ENGINEERS OF STATE TO HOLD MEETING HERE

Convention To Bring Many From Various Cities Throughout North Dakota

A state-wide call has been made and local members of the North Dakota Chapter and the Bismarck Club of the American Association of Engineers are making preparations for the third annual meeting of the state chapter to be held in Bismarck on February 9 and 10.

The North Dakota chapter, now comprising a majority of the professional engineers of the state, was formed in 1919 in Bismarck, which city is the chapter's state headquarters. The American Association of Engineers, a national organization of nearly 25,000 members, is a non-technical organization of technical men devoted to the promotion of their economic and social welfare.

The coming annual meeting in February is expected to surpass all previous meetings. Prominent speakers have been secured. The general topic will be "North Dakota as a Field for Engineers." Some of the speakers, and their topics are:

"Coal and Coal Mining in North Dakota," F. L. Anders, Fargo.

"Clay and Clay Industry in North Dakota," E. J. Babcock, Grand Forks.

"Indian Engineering," M. Gilmore, Bismarck.

"The American Association of Engineers," F. M. Bass, Minneapolis.

"The Architect in North Dakota," G. R. Horton, Jamestown.

"Irrigation in North Dakota," Geo. McMahon, Bismarck.

"The Road Situation in North Dakota," F. F. Mees, Mandan.

"The County Superintendent of Highways," T. H. Robinson, Washington.

"Mineral Disposal Plant," E. J. Thomas, Minot.

All professional engineers and architects of the state have been invited to attend. All sessions but the Friday afternoon business session will be open to the public also. Meetings will be held in the American Legion hall. A large attendance is expected. Considerable preparations are being made especially for the banquet and dance to be held at the McManis hotel Friday evening, Feb. 10.

FIRE DAMAGES SCHIPFER HOME

Believed to Have Originated From Overheated Chimney

Fire which originated in the attic of the home of Dr. L. A. Schipper No. 4 Avenue B, shortly before 11 o'clock today did considerable damage although prompt action by the fire department held the fire which had gained a good start to a minimum.

It is believed that the fire originated from an overheated chimney. A large portion of the roof was burned. Considerable water was thrown by the fire department, but not a great deal of damage was caused to the lower floors by dripping water, it was believed.

The amount of the damage could not be estimated early this afternoon.

W. C. T. U. Committee To Lay Plans

The North Dakota Executive Committee of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet in Fargo March 9 and 10 to lay plans for law enforcement and membership campaigns in the state. Plans also will be made for the district convention of the union to be held in this spring and the state convention next fall.

Mrs. Elizabeth Preston Anderson, of Fargo, national recording secretary for the organization, is coming to arrange the presence of Anna V. Gordon, national head of the union at the state convention.

TOWNLEY FREED FROM JAIL; GETS WEEK'S RESPITE

Leaves Jackson, Minnesota, For St. Paul to Spend Several Days With Wife

AT FARGO NEXT MONDAY

Plea of Townley's Attorney For Week's Respite is Granted By Johnson

Jackson, Minn., Jan. 30.—A. C. Townley, president of the National caparison league, was released from the Jackson county jail today after serving a 90-day sentence for violation of the state espionage law. He left the jail at 10 a. m. and immediately departed by automobile to St. Paul to visit his wife who is ill there. Townley had agreed to appear in Cass county district court at Fargo February 6 to answer to a warrant charging him with implication in the alleged embezzlement of $3,000 from the Scandinavian-American bank of Fargo.

It was a new Townley who stepped out from the jail rejuvenated physically and eager to return to the farmers' fight as he put it. His 90-day stay in jail was turned by him into three months of systematic exercise and this coupled with good regular meals put him in better shape than he has been in for years, his friends say.

Two automobiles made up the Non-partisan party that left for St. Paul this forenoon. The first car to leave contained C. G. Griffith, brother of the league state manager for Minnesota; A. B. Gilbert, and H. B. Shumacher, the latter of Fargo.

Townley traveled in the second car and his companions were his secretary, A. J. Weirick, and Mrs. Mervin, Geo. H. Griffith, state manager of the league, and Geo. N. Nordlin, St. Paul, a member of the state house of representatives.

Townley refused to make any statement before leaving as to his future plans. He thanked the sheriff and Mrs. Lee for the treatment they had accorded him, including many small favors. Sheriff Lee said Townley had been a good prisoner.

GRANTED WEEK'S DELAY

Fargo Jan. 30.—A. C. Townley, for whom Cass county officials hold a warrant charging embezzlement will be permitted to go from the Jackson county jail to St. Paul, according to Fred Kraemer, Cass county sheriff.

Mr. Kraemer said that Sveinbjorn Johnson, Attorney General of North Dakota, sponsor of the charges against Townley, has approved the plan permitting the national league president spending this week in St. Paul, coming to Fargo next Monday.

STEEL SELLING PLAN PROBED

"Pittsburgh Plus" Method of Selling Steel is Attacked

Milwaukee, Jan. 30.—For the third time the Pittsburgh plus steel controversy between western manufacturers and the Pittsburgh steel mills came under investigation today before the Federal Trade Commission. Examiner John Bennett opened a series of hearings here with other hearings scheduled for Minneapolis, Pittsburgh and Indianapolis later. Complaints in the present case include the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Under the "Pittsburgh plus" plan all steel of the steel corporation is sold at cost as Pittsburgh plus the freight from Pittsburgh, although the steel may have been produced in Minnesota mills. The plan is designed to protect the Pittsburgh mills from competition, it is alleged.

ARBUCKLE CASE HALTED A DAY

San Francisco, Jan. 30.—There was no session today of Superior Judge Harold Landersbach's court where Roscoe Arbuckle is on trial for the second time on a charge of manslaughter arising from the death of Virginia Rappe. Gavin McNair, chief of the defense counsel, is in Nevada appearing in the May Pickford divorce proceedings and the court declared a recess until his return tomorrow. It is expected the case will be in the hands of the jury this week.

EDUCATION COST 9 CENTS AN HOUR

Minot, N. D., Jan. 30.—It costs about nine cents an hour to give each child in Minot educational preparation for life according to figures prepared by school officials upon the grade schools, high school night and kindergarten schools. This figure is arrived at by taking 2,000 Minot pupils, six hours a day for nine months of school and the school year cost at about $185,000. About 86 teachers are employed as the year's average.

MARRIED—RETAINS MAIDEN NAME

The marriage of Miss Elsie Hill, chairman of the executive committee of the National Woman's Party, only recently became known. That may have been because she still retains her maiden name. She was married Dec. 24 to Albert Leavitt, professor of law at University of North Dakota. She met him last March when he gave $100 to the suffrage cause "in honor of Woodrow Wilson."

Three Times Tried to Reach the South Pole, and Made Many Thrilling Explorations

Buenos Aires, Jan. 30.—(By the Associated Press).—More than three weeks elapsed between the death of Sir Ernest Shackleton, the British explorer, and its announcement to the world made yesterday when the body arrived at Montevideo. The delay, La Nación's Montevideo correspondent telegraphed, was described by Capt. Hussey who accompanied the body as due to a series of wireless mishaps.

Sir Ernest died aboard the steamship Quest on which he was making another Antarctic voyage while anchored off South Georgia Island on January 5.

His body was taken to Montevideo on the first leg of the trip home aboard the Norwegian steamship Professor Kuvak.

Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 30.—Frank T. Johnson, who says he is wanted in Minot, North Dakota on a charge of violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act, surrendered today to U. S. Commissioner Bond Johnson said he escaped last October when federal authorities conducted a raid at Minot.

MANY PROMINENT PEOPLE KILLED WHEN MOTION PICTURE ROOF CAVES IN DURING NIGHT PERFORMANCE

Brigadier-General of Regular Army Put in Charge of Ruins and Search For Bodies Goes On—Three-fold Investigation Is Started by Authorities Into Cause For Collapse, at First Blamed to Heavy Fall of Snow on Roof of Movie, Which Was of War-time Construction

Washington, Jan. 30.—With 108 dead and 183 injured removed from the ruins of the Knickerbocker motion picture theater early today rescuers were still struggling with the heavy wreckage left when the snow-laden roof of the structure collapsed during the showing of a comedy feature bill Saturday night.

Brigadier-General Bandholtz, commandant of the federal troops in the district, in personal charge of the rescue work, said it might be another 24 hours before it could be definitely said there were no more dead or injured in the wreckage of twisted steel and concrete.

It was believed, however, that the section now being explored would yield few additions to the list. A party of the rescuers early today had been struggling for hours to release one man believed alive although imprisoned under the mass nearly 36 hours.

The Capital City was bowed in grief to learn the full extent of the tragedy. President Harding in a statement last night said the tragedy had left him with the same inexpressible sorrow which has come to all of Washington and which will be sympathetically felt throughout the land.

Investigation Started. A three-fold investigation was in prospect today. In addition to an exhaustive inquiry ordered by the board of commissioners of the district and another to be started immediately by the grand jury, Senator Capper, Kansas, a member of the senate District of Columbia committee, announced that as soon as the senate convened he would introduce a resolution calling for an investigation of the tragedy.

The senator said he had received reports that the building code of the district had been violated in more than a few instances during the war-time era of construction.

Edward H. Shughnessy, second assistant postmaster-general, was still making a fight for his today at the Walter Reed hospital. Among those prominent on the list of dead was former Representative A. H. Barchfield, formerly of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Farrand, sister of Minister Dianchi, of Guatemala.

Victims Rushed to Hospitals. All was confusion for hours after the crash while police, firemen, marines from the nearby barracks and soldiers from Walter Reed military hospital strove to burrow beneath the mass of debris and bring forth those buried there under.

Stores had been removed from the edges of the debris and hurried to hospitals, but police, engaged for 24 hours in battling the worst snow storm to visit Washington in a decade, were unable to check up on the number of those taken to the hospitals or whether any or how many had died after reaching the hospitals.

Every fire station in the city was called upon to send its crew to the scene and the collection of fire fighting apparatus only added to the confusion.

With the arrival of the marines, however, order began to be restored.

Apply Acetylene Torches. Emergency hospitals were set up in the neighborhood, some of the homes or high officials of the government being used.

Finding the tons of concrete and steel of the roof was almost immovable and unseparable, the street railway companies of the city and the Washington navy yard was called upon to supply acetylene torches. With these more rapid progress was made and it was hoped that within a few hours it might be possible to reach those buried beneath the debris.

Representative Smithwick of Florida, was painfully cut about the head and chest but not seriously hurt. Another of those injured was Noble Tomasso Assereto, third secretary of the Italian embassy.

Attaches of the British embassy reported at midnight that a check had been made of the staff of that embassy and none found to have been in attendance at the theater. Belief was expressed in some quarters that the final list of injured and possibly that of the dead, would contain names of well known persons inasmuch as the theater was situated in a portion of the city in which many government officials lived.

The management of the theater, which was owned and operated by the Harry M. Cranfill company, owner of a number of theaters in the city, declared that the building only recently had been inspected and approved and that the collapse of the roof only could have been caused by the tremendous weight imposed by the heavy snow fall that has visited Washington since 1909.

Work Headless of Danger. The roof fell with such force as to drive three concrete pillars through the orchestra floor 4 p. m. near the stage, however, the pillars were not seriously damaged. The platform was not seriously damaged. For this reason it was believed that the musicians escaped.

Every expedient was resorted to in the work to rescue, volunteers assisting the firemen, police and marines without regard to the possible collapse of the walls, a prospect which was regarded as all too imminent.

One case was observed of a small child who was rescued.

FIRE CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE

St. John N. D., Jan. 31.—Fire broke out in the local garage Friday night inside of two hours the building was burned to the ground. The fire originated in the rear of the garage where the electric light plant was located. It probably started from a short circuit in the wiring. Twenty-eight cars were in storage, most of them without insurance. Two were saved. There was very little insurance on the building, making the whole almost a complete loss.

For a time it was feared that the operator of the light plant had been enveloped by the flames but upon closer investigation he was found to be safe and sound.

RISK BOARD TO TEST AUDITING BOARD'S DEMAND

Supreme Court Asked to Define Status of Workmen's Compensation Commission

INVOLVES AUDIT OF BILLS

A proceeding has been instituted in the supreme court on behalf of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau in resisting an order of the state auditing board that the compensation bureau submit all its bills for salaries, traveling expenses and similar bills to the state auditing board for audit as is required of departments of the state.

When the new administration came into power the auditing board, composed of the Governor, Treasurer, Commissioner of Insurance, Commissioner of Agriculture and State Examiner, ordered the Workmen's Compensation Board to begin submitting bills to it. This was done on opinion of Attorney General Johnson. Treasurer John Steen, following the ruling of the auditing board, refused to pay two small bills, one for $24.75 for supplies and one for $31.55 for traveling expenses because they had not been approved by the state auditing board.

The action started in the supreme court is directed against Treasurer Steen. It is brought by C. A. Marr, attorney for the compensation bureau, who states the attorney-general refused to prosecute the action, and is accompanied by an affidavit from S. S. McDonald, member of the bureau. The petition is for an order of the supreme court to Treasurer Steen to show cause why the bills should not be paid.

It is the contention of the bureau that "the Workmen's Compensation Bureau is a state-owned utility, enterprise or business project and as such all claims, accounts, bills, or demands against the Workmen's Compensation Bureau are specifically excepted from the accounts, claims, bills and demands against the state which it is the duty of the state auditing board to audit as specified and provided for in Chapter 21 of the Special Session Laws of the Sixteenth Legislative Assembly of the state of North Dakota, which chapter defines the duties of the state auditing board and that the expenses and salaries payable from the Workmen's Compensation Bureau are not accounts, claims, or demands against the State of North Dakota.

To Amend Report
The compensation board at a meeting held yesterday afternoon appointed a committee of Commissioners Elliott and White, and Secretary Marr to draft a set of rules and regulations for the procedure of the bureau in transacting its business.

Governor Neagoe gave the bureau 10 days extension of time in which to file an amended report. The governor some time ago wrote the bureau that the first report filed with him for the business of the last year did not comply with the law and asked for more specific information. A second letter brought representatives of the bureau to the governor's office yesterday afternoon. The governor allowed the extension of time to prepare the itemized statement.

A DASH FOR NORTH POLE BY AIRPLANE

Christiania, Norway, Jan. 28—Two Norwegian aviators, Lieutenant Omdal and Sergeant Odd Dahl, will accompany Roald Amundsen when he starts north again from Seattle Wash., next May and will make a dash for the North Pole by airplane.

They will also carry a moving picture outfit and about 30,000 feet of film. Two extra men have been engaged here by Amundsen for the expedition.

Both Omdal and Dahl are expert wireless operators and expect to keep the Maud, Amundsen's ship, in touch with Spitzbergen and to receive messages from the Norwegian wireless station at Etelvanger.

The two aviators will join the Maud at Seattle. The airplanes to be used in the North Pole dash will have motors of 60 horse-power, accommodate two passengers and be provided with skis and wheels.

Only one machine will be used at a time and the other held in reserve. As the Maud does not offer sufficient space, a shed must be built on the ice for them.

The Norwegian army and navy have presented to the explorers the arms and munitions they may need and 60 boxes of specially selected provisions, tested by Professor Torup of the physiological laboratory of the University of Christiania, will be sent to Seattle for their use.

WANTS FEDERAL FARM BONDS TO BE TAX EXEMPT

No Objection to Constitutional Amendment on Others, Says Witness

Washington, Jan. 28.—Confidence that an amendment to the federal constitution designed to prevent further issuance of tax exempt securities would be ratified by sufficient states, if federal farm loan bonds were not affected by the proposal was expressed today at a hearing before the house ways and means committee by H. C. McKenzie, of Walton, N. Y., representing the American Farm Bureau Federation. The committee was told that farmers of the country believed it would be detrimental to agricultural interests to tax farm loan bonds. Mr. McKenzie also contended that because of tax-free securities real estate was required to bear too heavy a share of the tax burden. The proposed constitutional amendment was endorsed also by Samuel Lord, chairman of the Minnesota tax commission and president of the National Tax Association; Thomas E. Lyons, head of the Wisconsin tax commission; and H. B. Alfrey, of Newton, Ia., in the farm loan and banking business.

SECOND DEMAND TO CATHRO FOR FUND BALANCE

Attorney General Asks That $3,600 of "Lemke Fund" be Returned to B. of N. D.

SAYS IT WAS REMOVED

A demand that Former Director-General and Manager F. W. Cathro, of the Bank of North Dakota, return to the Bank of North Dakota $3,600 of the "Lemke fund" was to be served upon Mr. Cathro by Attorney General Johnson.

The first request directed to Mr. Cathro at his home in Bottineau was that he explain why the "Lemke fund" was held in the Bank of North Dakota and not shown as a deposit, although the Courier-News of Fargo had printed a deposit slip showing money was deposited in the Bank of North Dakota. The answer, according to reports made to Attorney General Johnson, was kept in a sack in the vault.

When the league lost control of the bank it is alleged that Cathro removed the balance of $3,627.24 of the fund, raised by popular subscription on the plea of former Attorney General Lemke to the effect that there were no funds with which to prosecute the railroad rate case.

The heretofore demand that you return to the Bank of North Dakota by the Courier-News Publishing Co. and the balance of which deposit, amounting to at least $3,627.24, you removed from the Bank personally," Johnson wrote. "I also hereby demand that you return to the Bank all vouchers showing payments made from such fund, which was deposited in the name of William Lemke, as Attorney General, to be used only for certain purposes specified in the trust, namely, the protection of the interests of the State of North Dakota as such interests were supposed to be wrapped up in litigation pending when the fund was created, or which might thereafter be commenced."

"I am making this demand at this time in behalf of the State of North Dakota, the office of Attorney General, and particularly of the Bank of North Dakota, from the records of which you removed those vouchers aforesaid, and from the funds of which you removed the aforesaid amount, and all evidence of the deposit of the same in the Bank of North Dakota."

"At the time you removed this amount of money and these records, you were Director-General of the Bank, and as such you were entrusted with the custody and care of the funds and records in the bank."

"You will be expected to return this fund, and the records removed by you, within three days from the date of the service of this demand upon you."

It is particularly desired, it is understood to learn whether or not the money raised by voluntary subscription was used for the purpose for which it was contributed.

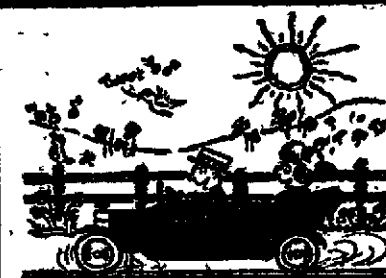

MINOT TO HAVE BOND ELECTION

Minot, N. D., Jan. 28.—The Minot school district is now considering the calling of an election to pass upon the issuance of about $200,000 of school bonds to finance the erection of a new school building in the northeastern part of Minot at a cost of about $140,000, and to take up about $60,000 of outstanding school warrants. Taking up of warrants is desired to place the schools upon a cash basis and to eliminate discounting of school warrants. Teachers salary warrants are now being discounted 3 per cent and general warrants 5 per cent. Agreement has not yet been reached as to the exact amount of bonds to be submitted to voters, some favoring a higher sum than $200,000 of finance another small school in the southeastern part of Minot.

DODGE BROTHERS PRICE REDUCTION

Probably no situation in the automobile industry has caused more interest and speculation, than the coming reduction in the prices of Dodge Brothers cars on next Wednesday.

Dodge Brothers have never solicited or gained the public's confidence through any appeal to mere price, but have rather built into their cars that excellence of materials and workmanship which buyers and owners have come to appreciate. The low cost of up-keep—the good name and the good-will of over 450,000 owners has come to be almost a tradition. However, with any article of merchandise which long satisfactory use has proven worthy of every confidence, any price reduction, no matter how small, gains much weight through its large, general public interest. But this is especially true of a motor car.

AGE IMPROVES MOTORS

Racing drivers best appreciate the desirability of an old motor, for it's the old seasoned motor—veterans of racing campaigns, which win hot, hard, grueling, speed contests.

It takes a year to properly season a motor block casting, so that it no longer warps from internal strains, and "finds its set."

Therefore, we say your old motor is best if reground, and fitted with new pistons, rings and pins. We have the most modern machine shop equipment for doing this work on a factory basis. All work guaranteed.

whose specifications show such great, obvious value and manufacturing skill as the cars Dodge Brothers build—motor cars whose acknowledged excellence has warranted many years of the continuous production of one identical type, without that great depreciation that necessarily comes to the individual owner when a radical change in models is made. While many additional improvements, adding increasing value to the car such as 4-inch cord tires, longer springs, wider seats, high pressure greasing, etc., have been made to Dodge Brothers cars, yet fundamentally these cars are the same today as when the first car left the factory at Detroit, many years ago. This insures a permanence and a satisfaction to owners, which can be secured in no other way.

A completely dismantled chassis showing all working parts is on display at the salesroom of M. B. Gilman Co. This makes it possible for the most casual observer to actually see for himself the true value and worth that is built into Dodge Brothers cars, and why price is truly a secondary consideration. The full line of complete cars is also on exhibition.

JEW MEET FOR DISCUSSION OF FUND CAMPAIGN

Meet in Fargo to Devise Means of Raising Money for Jews Abroad

NEED IS HELD GREAT

RAISE $75,000.
Fargo, Jan. 30.—Delegates to the North Dakota state meeting on war relief held here yesterday pledged from $75,000 to $10,000 for work among the suffering countries of Europe. Instead of the $50,000 quota set for the state, Fargo Jews subscribed $12,000 at the meeting. Former Governor L. B. Hanna was among the speakers.

Fargo, Jan. 30.—A conference of representative Jews from all parts of the state was held here yesterday to start the ball rolling in North Dakota's drive to raise $50,000 toward the $1,000,000 national fund for the relief of war sufferers in Eastern and Central Europe. David N. Nattalin, of Fargo, state Jewish War Relief chairman, presided.

Max M. Korschak, a prominent Chicago lawyer, and Miss Jessie Bogen, who served in Poland as a representative of the Joint Distribution Committee, discharging agent of all American Jewish Relief funds, were the principal speakers.

Mr. Korschak said in part: "All the suffering the Jew has been subjected to in the past, sinks into significance in comparison with the terrible catastrophe which has befallen him in the war-ridden countries of Europe. The cities where he lived were along the border line between Russia and Germany. Some of these cities were crossed and recrossed ten and fifteen times and as the armies crossed they left death and destruction in their wake. City after city where the Jew lived was devastated and destroyed, and their homes were leveled to the ground."

"On nights ranging from ten to forty-eight hours, they were compelled to flee for their lives. They lived like beasts of the forest, without clothing and without shelter. They ate the leaves of the trees and the grass of the fields in their feeble efforts to sustain life. Mothers became separated from their children; husbands from their wives, and as they marched, dear and beloved ones already weakened from hunger and exposure dropped in their tracks and were buried by the wayside."

500,000 Refugees
"So that today, as the result of this condition, there are 500,000 Jewish refugees. These refugees are populating towns and villages which are even unable to sustain their native population."

"The orphan problem is another which the American Jewish Relief Committee is endeavoring to cope with. An epidemic of typhus, such as the world has never known became rampant. This disease attacks mainly adults, and as a result there are 300,000 orphan children, unprovided for."

"The ravages of typhus can be fought with plain soap and water, but even these common things are not to be had. Shacks and sheds are converted into hospitals, and these are far and far between. Medicine and anaesthetics are lacking, and these miserable and dilapidated so-called hospitals are filled to overflowing."

"Frightful as are these conditions, they have been aggravated by source of pogroms and massacre such as the world has never known. Without warning, Jews in countless communities have been set upon. Their homes have been pillaged and their shops have been plundered. They have been swimming in an orgy of blood. It is estimated that there have been approximately 2,000 pogroms in number, and a quarter million of innocent Jews murdered in cold blood."

Miss Bogen said in part: "If the Jews in America knew what the Joint Distribution Committee has been doing overseas for the past six years, I am sure that they would be prouder of this achievement than of anything else, and that it would occupy a tremendous place in their daily thought."

American Jewry Their Hope
"For six years American Jewry has been the hope and salvation of 6,000,000 desolate, terror-stricken people in Eastern Europe from the Baltic to the Black Sea. In the lands where the battle raged most bitterly, the hand of American Jewry has stretched out, bringing food and clothing and warmth and encouragement."

"The signing of the Armistice did not bring peace and safety to the Jews of Eastern Europe. During the war it was not possible to carry through definite specific programs of relief. All we could do was to give where the need was greatest and give as much as we had. Thus over $14,000,000 has been sent into the battle areas of Europe. We for the first time realize the desolation that has been wrought and now we can plan definitely constructive programs and can put upon each program experts to work it out."

"The work that appeals to us most is, of course, care of the refugee children. It has been estimated that there are about 200,000 war relief orphans, children whose parents have perished in war from typhus, from famine or under the axes or swords of pogromists. Many of them are crippled and stunted little animals, crawling and begging in the streets, stealing and begging in all manner of crimes. They trust to us and it is up to American Jewry to sacrifice for these suffering children."

What is Sought
"The refugee program aims to repatriate the 300,000 people who have been driven from town to town. The medical program includes fighting typhus and the other diseases that are killing and crippling our people, by thousands and wiping whole towns out at a time."

"A question was put up to me one wintry day in a little town in Poland. A child had followed me in silence for a while. The child was a hideous thing to look upon. Its shoulders were humped, his eyes were twisted, and turned until they lost all resemblance of a human person. Its face was large and misshapen, eyes sunken, arms long and with hands of an adult hanging by its side, reaching almost to the ground. This was a victim of what the people call English sickness, due to undernourishment and neglect. The child asked me, 'Do the children in America look like us?'"

MASS MEETING HELD TO TALK BOND REPEAL
St. John, N. D., Jan. 30.—A mass meeting was held in the school house to discuss the proposition of holding an election to repeal the bond issue voted to the state at four per cent last year and to vote another issue at a higher rate of interest that can be sold to private parties. The consensus of opinion was that new bonds must be issued and a petition for calling an election was started. A committee of two was appointed to assist the school board to circulate the petition and to handle the transaction. The election will be held as soon as the necessary number of signers to the petition have been secured and sufficient notice has been given.

NOTED FAMILIES BUY N. D. BONDS
Some rather noted names made their appearance in the office of John Steen, state treasurer, when four different parcels of bonds were received for registration. One parcel of $50,000 worth from the Peckskill Savings bank of Peckskill, New York, brought evidence that the descendants of the Dutchburghers who settled in Peckskill in the days when Rip Van Winkle was awakening had retained saving and frugal habits. The Commonwealth Savings bank, with $30,000 and Bessie W. Stillman represented New York city, while $10,000 worth of bonds received from Boston were registered in the name of Louis D. Brandeis, justice of the United States supreme court.

Registering of the bonds saves an unusual amount of bother for the holder and for intermediary financial organizations, as interest due is sent direct by check to the holder of the bonds, instead of the bond holder clipping the coupons and sending them back through corresponding banks to the office of the state treasurer.

CITY EMPLOYEE RESTORED BY TAKING TANLAC
Had Tried Five Years To Get Relief From Stomach Trouble And Rheumatism But Nothing Seemed To Reach His Case.

Indigestion And Other Troubles Now Overcome. L. G. Larson Says He Feels Like A Brand New Man.

"I have been feeling like a new man ever since Tanlac toned up my stomach," said L. G. Larson, well known park keeper, 1708 Van Buren St., St. Paul, Minn.

"For about five years I had a hard time of it, first with stomach trouble and then with rheumatism. What I ate seemed to give me no nourishment and at times I had awful attacks of indigestion. Finally rheumatism got me in its clutches and between the two, stomach trouble and rheumatism, I was about as miserable as any man could be."

"I can say for Tanlac it put my stomach in the shape in a short time and soon afterward the rheumatism began to leave me. I firmly believe in Tanlac for a few bottles of it did for me what all the medicines I took in five years failed to do."

NOTE—Tanlac Vegetable Pills are an essential and vitally important part of the Tanlac treatment. You cannot hope to get the most satisfactory results from Tanlac without first establishing a free and regular movement of the bowels. Tanlac Vegetable Pills are absolutely free from calomel and are sold on a positive guarantee to give satisfaction.

"Tanlac is sold in Bismarck by Joseph Brelow, and by leading druggists everywhere."

FARM LOANS TO BEGIN SOON, IS WORD OF BANK

Over $2,000,000 of Applications For Farm Loans Are Now On Hand

APPRAISING IS BEGUN

Money on farm mortgages will begin to go out almost any time from the Farm Loan Department of the Bank of North Dakota. Any one of several seekers for money may be the next to receive money on a proposed loan, according to W. B. DeVault, head of the department. The first money will be for the prospect who first gets his papers on some loans already passed upon, to the farm loan department in the proper shape. The department is anxious to get started in the actual making of loans, so as to begin the turnover of mortgages to the state treasurer.

New applications in answer to the recent circular sent out have been rolling into the office of the farm loan manager in a steady stream for the last few days. All the corners of the state are represented in the new requests, but many of the high totals come from the western part of the state. McLean county leading at the present time, while another western county, Billings, has failed to ask for a loan.

Appraisal of lands for the new loans will be made under Frank E. Curry of Finley, N. D. Mr. Curry has been in the employ of the Federal Farm Land Bank of St. Paul since the organization of that institution and is loaned by them to the North Dakota Farm Loan department.

Mr. Curry has spent a large amount of time in farm loan work and is especially valuable because of his knowledge of North Dakota conditions.

TO REPORT ON TAKING UP TRACK
The state railroad commission will make a report to the Interstate Commerce Commission in the matter of the request of the Great Northern Railroad Co. to abandon track between Portland and Portland Junction, in Traill county. Final action must be taken by the national body, the North Dakota commission having authority only to recommend. The commission now has the matter under consideration.

As the night wore on, the work of rescue continued feverishly but some officials expressed doubt if the debris could be completely removed for several days, leading to the possibility that the last body may not be recovered for some time.

The cordon of police, firemen and marines was reinforced by troops of boy scouts.

ASKS SENATE PROBE
Washington Jan. 30.—Investigation of the motion picture theater disaster by a senate committee is proposed by a resolution introduced by Senator Copper, Republican, Kansas, a member of the senate district of Columbia committee. Under the rules the resolution was referred to the audits and control committee.

Superintending the resolution Senator Frelinghuysen, Republican, New Jersey, said the investigation should be a "wide-spread one of the entire government" adding that he knew from personal knowledge that many buildings in Washington were "fire traps" which might at any time cause the loss of scores of lives.

RATES TOO LOW, SAYS WATER CO. TO COMMISSION

Files Answer to Petition of Several Water Users With Railroad Commission

SAYS RATES ENJOINED

Declares That Present Rates Charged Are So Low as to be Confiscatory

The Bismarck Water Supply this afternoon filed an answer with the state railroad commission to the petition of a number of water users of Bismarck filed recently.

The company in its answer, "denies that the rates or any of them are unjust and unreasonable because excessive, but alleges that said rates are unjust and unreasonable in that they are inadequate, insufficient and confiscatory."

The company sets out the various rates established by the commission, which include a general rate for water, special rates measured by meter to certain large consumers of water, including the state of North Dakota, Fort Lincoln, St. Alexis hospital, Indian school, McKenzie hotel, Soo hotel, Northern Produce company, Northern Pacific Railway company, Soo railway company, Hughes Electric company and special rates to the city of Bismarck.

The company asks that the complaint be dismissed and that the order of October 2, 1920, be dismissed. The order, a copy of which accompanied the answer of the company, authorized new rates to be charged by the company, requires the company to install meters for all services now unfettered, that it replace the 12-inch supply main from the reservoir to distribution system with eight-inch main, install a filtration plant, new pump and fire regular reports.

Denies Discrimination.
Answering the paragraph numbered two of the complaint of water users the company says that it has been the rule of the company to require each of its consumers and patrons to whom service was furnished to furnish a meter to measure the water, but that those consumers to whom service was furnished before January, 1911, and who had fixtures installed were not required to furnish a meter.

The company denies it furnishes water free or that it discriminates against the city of Bismarck and inhabitants, but that special rates are those fixed by the commission.

It says that the reservoirs used for the storage of water by it are used also for the purpose of sedimentation and that no filtration plant is maintained by it as a part of its water works system but denies the charges of furnishing unwholesome water.

Higher Rates Enjoined.
The answer sets out the last order of the railroad commission for increased rates and states that the city commission of Bismarck appealed to the district court, where the appeal is now pending. It says that the supreme court issued an order in January, 1921, restraining the company from enforcing the increased rates as granted by the railroad commission solely on the ground that said increase was allowed without sufficient notice and hearing and that "by reason of the fact that respondent was restrained as aforesaid from putting into effect the increased rates allowed by said board or railroad commission, respondent has been unable for lack of funds to make all of the improvements and betterments in equipment and service directed in said order of said board of railroad commissioners, that since said hearing before the board of railroad commissioners and the entry of its order as aforesaid there has been no change in respondent's waterworks plant, except that many thousands of dollars have been expended in improvements, and betterments thereto, that since said hearing and order the service rendered by respondent has been unreasonably efficient; and that the rates being the same as those now in effect as set forth in paragraph numbered one of this answer, were at the time of said hearing and order, as found by the Board of Railroad Commissioners in said prior hearing inadequate, insufficient and did not afford a fair return upon the property of respondent employed in public service, and that said rates have become increasingly insufficient to afford such return, and are now and ever since said prior hearing have been unjust, inadequate and confiscatory."

Plant Good, Answer Says.
The answer avers that the present time its plant, including pumping station, reservoirs and water mains is in good and efficient condition, that they are sufficient in size and in all other respects to furnish and insure the furnishings to said community, including the petitioners, a good supply of pure water and sufficient water pressure, and that the said plant and all the parts thereof are carefully and properly operated, and that the company is furnishing a good and sufficient supply of pure and wholesome water, and that no changes or betterments are necessary to enable the company to continue to furnish an ample supply of pure and wholesome water and in all respects comply with its franchise.

AMBITION OF SOME LEAGUERS TO FORM NATIONAL MOVEMENT SHOWN

Letters of Roylance Reveal Correspondence to Get La Follette's Help in Matter

MANY RADICALS NAMED

Ambition of some leaders in the Nonpartisan league movement to merge it into a national organization, activities of some of them with well-known radicals in the country and other phases of proposed cooperation with outside forces to enlarge the scope of the league are shown in some of the letters of William G. Roylance, former publicity agent for the Bank of North Dakota, which escaped the ash-heap.

The letters of Roylance are part of a large amount of correspondence which failed to reach the ash-heap to which they were consigned.

The letters reveal Roylance's important figure in many dealings of the league in North Dakota, is working to the same end as Scott Nearing, noted radicalist, as corresponding with Upton Sinclair and endeavoring to join Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin; Senator Ladd, Glenn Plumb and others. There also is indication many league didn't like the idea of national expansion.

On Aug. 20, 1921, Roylance wrote D. C. Dorman, Organization Manager, National Nonpartisan League, Minneapolis saying:

"In compliance with our recent conversation, I have written Senator Ladd with regard to possibilities for closer cooperation between the league and LaFollette forces in Wisconsin and with regard to my plan for uniting national progressive organizations. Senator Ladd has written me promising to see Senator LaFollette at the earliest possible opportunity, and he entirely approves of my idea for bringing about national cooperation, without arousing suspicion of any organization with regard to political domination. Senator Ladd expects an early recess of Congress, in which case he will probably return to North Dakota and I will have an opportunity for a conference with him here or at Fargo. I shall follow these matters up as vigorously as possible and will keep you informed."

Interests Carl Thompson

On August 24, 1921, Mr. Dorman wrote Roylance saying:

"We acknowledge receipt of your letter of August 20. We are glad to note that you are working on the proposition of getting the forces lined up nationally."

"We had a long letter from Carl D. Thompson stating his position and that he had had a letter from you."

"We are very anxious to work with Mr. Thompson insofar as possible and as he states that they have no idea of wanting to form a third party but merely get the forces together."

"Kindly give Mr. Thompson all the consideration possible along this line."

Thompson formerly was an active member of the Socialist national organization and campaign manager one year. He also was in the employ of the Bank of North Dakota.

On Aug. 31, Roylance answered Dorman saying: "With regard to your request in your letter of August 24th that I give Mr. Thompson every consideration possible in my efforts to bring about closer working unity between our organization and others working along similar lines, am glad to say that Mr. Thompson and I have arrived at complete agreement on all important points. I am able to attend the Public Ownership Conference next November we feel very confident that we shall be able to get a number of influential and progressive leaders together and a working plan adopted."

On Sept. 1, 1921, Mr. Dorman acknowledged receipt of Roylance's letter of Aug. 31, and said: "We are in receipt of a circular from Mr. Thompson, inclosing the call and invitation to a meeting on November the 19th to 21st. No doubt, you have received a copy of this, which we consider is very well gotten up, and will be of tremendous propaganda value over the different states. We are going to send it out to all of the State Managers and organizers and boosters, and do everything we can to get as large a representation to this meeting as possible."

Expects National Movement

In a letter to Paul Greer, of the Omaha Daily Bee, on Sept. 26, 1921, Roylance said: "I do not expect the League to fall to pieces; but I do expect that before long it will be merged into a movement that will assume national proportions."

The name of Upton Sinclair was brought into the Roylance correspondence on Aug. 4, 1920, in a letter to Herbert E. Gaston, of the Minnesota Daily Star. A paragraph of the letter reads:

"There is another subject which I desire to bring to your attention, in which I have had some conversation and little correspondence with various persons interested in liberal publications. I refer to the difficulty that is being experienced in securing supplies of paper. Learning a short time ago that Mr. Upton Sinclair had interested himself in a plan for establishing cooperative paper production in the interests of labor and other liberal publications, I wrote to him, giving him certain information which I had collected some years previous relating to available supplies of paper pulp wood. Mr. Sinclair referred me to Mr. Costello, Managing Editor of the Federated Press, but I have not yet taken the matter up with him."

Roylance wrote considerable matter for The Federated Press, which had on its executive board Robert M. Buck, of the New Majority; R. E. Smith, of the Daily Bulletin, Butte, Montana, and Herbert E. Gaston, of the Minnesota Daily Star. The Federated Press serves many radical publications.

Writes Senator Ladd

A paragraph of a letter of E. J. Costello, managing editor of The Federated Press, written Jan. 17, 1921, placed Roylance and Scott Nearing together in the gratitude of the writer, he said: "I trust that some day our finances will be in such shape that we can adequately compensate both you and Dr. Nearing and the other friends of the labor press who write for us with no tangible reward."

Roylance wrote several letters to Senator Ladd on the subject of merging the Nonpartisan league into a national movement. Roylance wrote Ladd on the subject on Aug. 11, 1921, also urging establishment in Washington of a legislative service for different organizations. He said in part: "Furthermore, it is recognized that there is the greatest need for the formation of some sort of nucleus around which the national progressive movement can concentrate, and anyone at all acquainted with the situation will agree that any proposition for direct political consolidation is doomed to failure at the very beginning. All with whom I have talked or corresponded with in regard to this matter agree that our best chance lies in the establishment of a bureau or service through which our common problems can be studied and the interests upon which we may unite for political action defined. With that done we should be in favorable position for political cooperation on the eve of the campaign and by the use of whatever method—Nonpartisan endorsement, fusion, the formation of a national party, or otherwise—as existing conditions might determine."

"Could you let me have your views on this matter at the earliest possible moment? I have talked the matter over with Mr. Plumb, who approves the idea, and Mr. Carl Thompson of the Public Ownership League is also greatly interested. I have some definite suggestions to make to you with regard to our relations with Senator LaFollette both in Wisconsin and in Washington that I shall write you within a few days. Lieutenant-Governor Cummings and others at Madison have recently asked me to solicit your kind offices with Senator LaFollette to the end that a closer cooperation may be achieved."

To See LaFollette

On Aug. 17, 1921, Ladd wrote to Roylance: "I have your letter of August 11th with regard to the possibility of bringing about more definite working arrangements between the League and other national organizations working along the same line, especially here in Washington."

"It would be impossible to secure the cooperation of the agricultural bloc because several of these men are prejudiced at the present time, and could not be induced to take part."

"I will try and have a talk with Senator LaFollette about matters pertaining to the Nonpartisan League organization in Wisconsin and other states as early as I can. At the present time it is almost impossible to get in touch with him as he is tied up on important committees that take all of his time and any spare moments that he has he is working on the railroad problem."

Honors League Future

Roylance expressed grave doubts as to the future of the Nonpartisan league in a letter to Senator Ladd, Sept. 13, 1921. He said in part:

"I have very grave doubts as to whether the Nonpartisan league can accomplish much more without making workable and permanent connection with other national progressive organizations—at least with other farmers' organizations. I even doubt whether it can much longer hold its own without making such connections. But if such connections are made in such a way as to eliminate the greater part of the suspicion and jealousy that now exists between the League and other farmer organizations, it seems to me that there is every reason to believe that it will continue to be the most vigorous and most vital progressive organization in the country."

A letter signed Geo. F. Comings, written on stationery of the Wisconsin Legislature on Aug. 27, 1921, expressed the views of the Lieutenant-Governor of Wisconsin as follows:

"To my mind the getting together into harmonious relations of the forces represented in the League, the LaFollette following, the Women's Progressive L., the Committee of 48 so they may have a common objective and work together efficiently is of the greatest importance if a real fine complete victory is to be won. To elect Blaine again and the kind of legislature we had last is a victory barren of results. Simply a personal glorification. With LaFollette, Blaine and the Congressmen to campaign for next year, a victory is possible such as has not been in the state for more than a decade. I have hoped that Ladd and LaFollette would have much in common and be political chums."

MANDAN NEWS

Mandan Man Is Accidentally Shot

James Gorman, well known machinist employed in the Northern Pacific railroad shops exhibited real pluck and nerve Saturday morning when after accidentally shooting John Schlosser, he picked the latter up and carried him for a long distance to the Frank McGillic farm house where a conveyance was secured and the injured man brought to the city to the office of a physician. Schlosser and Gorman were hunting rabbits in the brush east of the city and were on opposite sides of a thicket. Gorman shot at a rabbit and Schlosser running behind the thicket behind the thick brush stepped directly in front of the charge. His legs were peppered from ankle to knee, many pellets penetrating the flesh. Gorman is not a large man, but he shouldered Schlosser and started for help pluckingly firing a long distance through the woods. None of the wounds received by Schlosser will result seriously, says the attending physician, largely because Gorman took such prompt means to insure first aid.

Paulson Funeral Held Yesterday

Corporal Clifford Paulson of Mandan, who died in a hospital in France the day before the armistice was signed, November 10, 1918, returned to the home of his parents Saturday and was accorded full military honors yesterday.

The body reached Mandan Saturday afternoon and was met by a guard of six service men in uniform who escorted it to the Paulson home,

The pall-bearers were E. W. Tolson, James Fitzsimmons, John Timmerman, Archie Reynolds, Leo McDonald, John G'Rourke. The firing squad under command of Walter Becker was composed of Fred Parker, Frank Weinhandl, Fred Romer, Jerome Murphy, Matt Reisenauer, Richard Key, Adolph Sande, and R. Stuber. FORMS AVAILABLE ON INCOME TAX Forms 1040 for reporting individual return of income for the taxable year 1921 of more than $5,000.00 are available at the offices of Collector of Internal Revenue, Fargo, North Dakota, Grand Forks and Bismarck. The form contains six pages, two of which are devoted to the return, two to a duplicate of the return to be retained by the taxpayer, and two to instructions. The forms will be sent to persons who filed similar returns last year, but failure to receive a form does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to file on time, on or before March 15, 1922, if the return is made on calendar year basis.

Forms 1040A for reporting income of $5,000 or less also are available at the above offices.

SATURDAY-EVENING LETTER

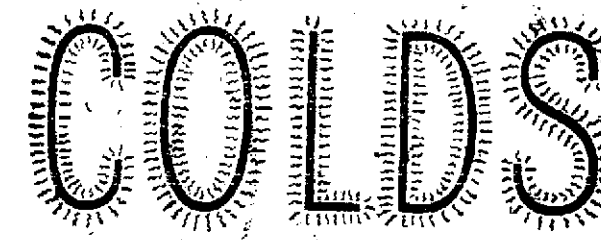

(By Justice J. E. Robinson.)

The great question before us now is reduction of surcharges on wartime carrier rates, a reduction and liquidation of the tax burdens and the "bid in" tax sales. On these questions the Courier-News has some reason for confessing and turning right about face, because in the past its policy has been to cover up or minimize the taxes and the squandering or lavish expenditure of public money—and that has given cause for THE RE-CALL.

As I understand it, the League program was for true and genuine reform, and not for excessive taxes, and by some ominous fate the action of the League Managers has been just the reverse of the program. Surely we have lost our bearing and gone far astray. Now we must retrace our steps, commence anew, repeal the bad laws and profit by experience, and we must put a stop to swindling by sales of stock or any other device. We must not continue to play a losing game. The wealth producers of the state are on the verge of want. They must be given a chance to clean up, throw off their excess burdens and commence anew. That may be done by a proper use of the initiative. We have only to formulate good laws, sign a petition for their submission and vote for the same at the next Primary.

Certain it is that during the past three years state and municipal taxation has run wild. In 1920 the state tax was $12,000,000, the total tax $33,000,000. Of course that is ruinous. It is Bolshevism. Now the remedy is to pass an act cancelling the numerous tax sales and penalties and costs, reducing by fifty per cent all unpaid taxes for 1921 and 1920, and likewise reducing all taxes for 1921. Do you know a better remedy?

Big Savings For The Thrifty Housewife

Few homes indeed do not feel the need of economy. The necessity of making every penny count touches the purse of every housewife. It is doubtful if there is a single article employed as a food or in the preparation of food that demands more buying wisdom than Baking Powder. Upon its quality depends the success and economy of the bakings themselves. Calumet Baking Powder enables the housewife to make three worth while savings. She saves when she buys it—it is moderate in price. She saves when she uses it—she uses only half as much as is required of most other powders. She saves materials—it is used with—it never permits baking failure. Any woman can use Calumet with absolute certainty of best results—delicious, tasty bakings that are pure and wholesome.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

(Established 1873)

A NATIONAL DISGRACE

Many who read this would have died on the battlefields of France, or been permanently crippled, had it not been for the American soldiers now known as "disabled veterans."

They stopped the enemy and his bullets. That shortened the war—ended it before more of the folks back home were drawn into the casualty lists.

The lucky ones who came through the war uninjured are enjoying peace. But the war goes on forever for the disabled soldier.

In most cases, his battle will last until his death. And it is a battle that he is fighting largely alone.

More than three years have passed since the Armistice. The disabled war veterans, far from enjoying the comforts that are rightly theirs by all laws of decency, again are compelled to fight for fair, square treatment by the national government.

The situation discloses gross neglect and an almost criminal stupidity in mishandling the disabled soldiers.

It is becoming an old story. And it is shadowed by talk of "national ingratitude."

There is, however, no ingratitude. The American people are fully aware of the tremendous debt they owe their crippled and maimed war heroes.

The American people stand ready to foot the bill for whatever is necessary to give these men a square deal.

Responsibility for this national disgrace is somewhere in Washington.

Pot will call the kettle back. The buck will be passed freely between Congress and the Veterans' Bureau.

The unscrupulous will coin political capital out of the situation.

After all is said and done, the real trouble is nothing but red tape and stupidity. It is unbelievable that any American official or representative is voluntarily throwing obstructions in the disabled veterans' path.

What is needed in Washington is a little common sense.

In all the history of our republic, there never has been as black a disgrace as the neglect of disabled veterans. The public, refusing to believe that Uncle Sam's efficiency has fallen to zero, demands action, fast and thorough.

AWAY FROM HOME

How much do you use the railroads? You are not getting your share, on the average, unless you make 12 trips a year and travel a total of 456 miles.

Thirty-three years ago, the average American used the railroads eight times a year, traveling a total of 192 miles.

Now, 30 years isn't so long ago. The year 1889 is fairly fresh in the memories of millions.

You look at the figures on railroad passenger travel, and your comment probably is: "We certainly are stepping out. Times have changed amazingly."

The period of civilization in which we live is most wonderful in the way it has conquered space.

Maybe you are one of the lucky who can recall a boyhood in a country town—and the thrill of going down to the village depot to watch "No. 17" steam in with a shrill screeching of brakes.

Out yonder, beyond the horizon, lay the Great Unexplored.

You recall your envy of the village banker when he returned from a trip to New York or some other metropolis.

To travel 50 miles by railroad, back in President Harrison's day, was a boyhood treat beyond the dreams of avarice.

Today the boy yawns as he climbs into the Pullman for a trip of 500 or 1000 miles. It's interesting, but not out of the ordinary. What he yearns for is to fly in that steel airplane overhead.

Travel, "far from home," once was a thrill even for the grown-ups. Now it's rather a dull necessity of a blase age.

In 1889, the thrill of railroad travel was somewhat deadened by a subconscious fear of "gettin' killed by the cars."

In that year 472,000,000 people were carried by the railroads, and the chance of being killed in a smash-up was one in 1,523,000.

Now the railroads haul 1,300,000,000 passengers a year, and the chance of being killed has been cut to one in 5,673,000.

Airplane travel will be similarly made safer and safer as the years slip by.

The rising generation may be fated for airplane travel. That's where it's getting its thrill now—watch the flying machine.

It's a real thrill—probably not as much to the youngsters as to us grown-ups, for the youngsters have so many tricks of magic, like the wireless telephone, that they must be getting beyond thrills.

But the thrill of watching "No. 17" steam into the village depot in 1889 wasn't half bad—eh, pa?

WALL STREET

Gulf states steel stock rose 45 points in Wall Street, on the strength of a rumor that Henry Ford was about to "buy into" the company.

This shows what Wall Street privately thinks of Henry Ford as a business man and manager, except when trying to prove that Henry doesn't know anything about railroading except how to make profits and reduce rates.

The stock broke, went downhill fast, when Wall Street heard Ford's denial that he was buying into the company. It took this denial 48 hours to reach the Street, after Ford's announcement. Is the stock market asleep or just winded?

CHICKENS COME HOME

The farmers are coming on. In their defense of the farm bloc they are talking the language they have listened to for years. When a tariff for the benefit of the manufacturer compelled the farmer to pay more for everything he bought, he was told it was for his own good, that the tariff would make the manufacturer prosperous and the manufacturer would pass on prosperity to the farmer.

The farmer has learned this by heart and it's his answer to the charge that the farm bloc represents a wicked selfish class movement. He adds that the farmer represents 40 per cent of the population of the country and 40 to 60 per cent of its purchasing power, so how can the country prosper unless the farmer prospers; the farmer must be the foundation of the prosperity structure. The clash comes over the farmer's demand that he have first whack at prosperity, instead of the leavings.

The bloc, the farmer points out, is no idea of his. "There have been blocs galore," said President Howard of the American Farm Bureau federation at St. Paul, "manufacturers' blocs, tariff blocs, wet blocs, dry blocs, bankers' blocs and packers' blocs." And he added: "The agricultural bloc is the only bloc that ever has proceeded with its cards face up on the table and without secret or closed door caucuses."

What has got the farmer in bad is that he learned his lesson so well that he is crowding for a place on the front seat.—Milwaukee Journal.

ABIDE WITH ME

The author of the well known hymn, "Abide With Me," was the Rev. Henry Francis Lyte. He was born in Ednam, near Kelso, Scotland, June 1, 1793. A scholar, graduated at Trinity college, Dublin; a poet and a musician, the hardworking curate was a man of frail physique, with a face of almost feminine beauty, and a spirit "as pure and gentle as a little child's."

The shadow of tuberculosis was over him all his life. His memory is chiefly associated with the district church at Lower Brixham, Devonshire, when he became "perpetual curate" in 1823. He died at Nice, France, November 20, 1847. On the evening of his last Sunday preaching and communion service he handed to one of his family a manuscript of the hymn that was destined to live on, and the music he had composed for it. It was not until eight years later that Henry Ward Beecher introduced it, or part of it, to American Congregationalists, and fourteen years after the author's death it began to be sung as we now have it, in this country and in England:

Abide with me! Fast falls the eventide. The darkness deepens—Lord with me abide! When other helpers fail, and comforts flee, Help for the helpless, O abide with me!

There is pathos in the neglect and oblivion of Lyte's own tune to his words, especially as it was, in a sense, the work of a dying man who hoped that he might not be "wholly mute and useless" while lying in his grave, and who had prayed—

O Thou whose touch can lend Life to the dead, Thy quickening grace supply, And grant me swanlike my last breath to spend In song that may not die!

His prayer was answered in God's own way. Another's melody hastened his hymn on its useful career, and revealed to the world its immortal value. By the time it had won its slow recognition in England it was probably tuneless, and the compilers of "Hymns, Ancient and Modern" (1861), discovering the fact just as they were finishing their work, asked Dr. William Henry Monk, their music editor, to supply the want. In ten minutes, it is said, Dr. Monk composed the sweet, pleasing chant that has become immortal with Lyte's words.—Kansas City Times.

A NATIONAL DISGRACE

Many who read this would have died on the battlefields of France, or been permanently crippled, had it not been for the American soldiers now known as "disabled veterans."

They stopped the enemy and his bullets. That shortened the war—ended it before more of the folks back home were drawn into the casualty lists.

The lucky ones who came through the war uninjured are enjoying peace. But the war goes on forever for the disabled soldier.

In most cases, his battle will last until his death. And it is a battle that he is fighting largely alone.

More than three years have passed since the Armistice. The disabled war veterans, far from enjoying the comforts that are rightly theirs by all laws of decency, again are compelled to fight for fair, square treatment by the national government.

The situation discloses gross neglect and an almost criminal stupidity in mishandling the disabled soldiers.

It is becoming an old story. And it is shadowed by talk of "national ingratitude."

There is, however, no ingratitude. The American people are fully aware of the tremendous debt they owe their crippled and maimed war heroes.

The American people stand ready to foot the bill for whatever is necessary to give these men a square deal.

Responsibility for this national disgrace is somewhere in Washington.

Pot will call the kettle back. The buck will be passed freely between Congress and the Veterans' Bureau.

The unscrupulous will coin political capital out of the situation.

After all is said and done, the real trouble is nothing but red tape and stupidity. It is unbelievable that any American official or representative is voluntarily throwing obstructions in the disabled veterans' path.

What is needed in Washington is a little common sense.

In all the history of our republic, there never has been as black a disgrace as the neglect of disabled veterans. The public, refusing to believe that Uncle Sam's efficiency has fallen to zero, demands action, fast and thorough.

How much do you use the railroads? You are not getting your share, on the average, unless you make 12 trips a year and travel a total of 456 miles.

Thirty-three years ago, the average American used the railroads eight times a year, traveling a total of 192 miles.

Now, 30 years isn't so long ago. The year 1889 is fairly fresh in the memories of millions.

You look at the figures on railroad passenger travel, and your comment probably is: "We certainly are stepping out. Times have changed amazingly."

The period of civilization in which we live is most wonderful in the way it has conquered space.

Out yonder, beyond the horizon, lay the Great Unexplored.

You recall your envy of the village banker when he returned from a trip to New York or some other metropolis.

To travel 50 miles by railroad, back in President Harrison's day, was a boyhood treat beyond the dreams of avarice.

Today the boy yawns as he climbs into the Pullman for a trip of 500 or 1000 miles. It's interesting, but not out of the ordinary. What he yearns for is to fly in that steel airplane overhead.

Travel, "far from home," once was a thrill even for the grown-ups. Now it's rather a dull necessity of a blase age.

DITTRICHSTEIN, "GREAT LOVER," TELLS WHAT ATTRACTS WOMEN TO MEN

BY ALICE ROHE.
New York, Jan. 30.—More women have fallen in love with Leo Dittrichstein—on the stage, of course—than with any other man recorded in journalistic annals.

And they are always falling in love with him for such different reasons.

In his recent production of "Face Value" he shows how a clever ugly man can outclass a manly beauty in the love game. In his approaching revival of "The Great Lover" he shows the devastating effect upon the female heart of the glamor of genius and personality.

Desirous of getting a little useful information about ourselves, upon what the poets insist is the most important matter in the world, I asked this "Great Lover" and analyzer of women to give me ten observations on what most attracts women to men.

Here are the ten expert opinions of the man who never fails (on the stage, of course)—Leo Dittrichstein.

1. Personality is the greatest power in winning a woman.

Physical beauty hasn't a chance with personality and cleverness. Of course I am talking about intelligent women. Brainless women no doubt are won by superficial hares or cave man stuff.

2. All women have a latent desire for domination. Yes, even the intellectual ones, though they deny it. Of course the fine intelligent woman doesn't crave brutal domination but she likes to feel that her lover or husband is either mentally or physically stronger than she.

3. An intellectual or an intelligent woman could never fall in love with a man who lacked personality.

4. Women more than anything else are in love with love.

5. Women are attracted by the glamor of the artist. About the artist, whether he is a musician, a painter, a sculptor, a writer or an actor, there is the glamor of temperament, the lure of the beauty he creates.

6. Women are unquestionably lured by the symbols of rank whether it is the uniform of an officer or the regalia of a diplomat.

7. A man, to be a great lover, must be faultless in his personal appearance of the artist or the punctilious perfection of the Beau Brummel.

8. Intelligent women demand brains—but that is the first essential of personality.

9. Kindness—generosity, self-sacrifice—we know how little these count without personality. If a man has but one weapon to win the love game let it be personality.

WOODROW WILSON FOUNDATION HEAD TELLS WHAT MOVE STANDS FOR

BY CLEVELAND H. DODGE
Chairman, Executive Committee, Woodrow Wilson Foundation.
New York, Jan. 30.—Are we idealists?

This question has taken hold of the imagination of Americans and it is to be feared that sometimes the too hasty observer has seemed to see the sunset of idealism and the dawn of practicalism.

Yet both opinions are wide of the truth. Ideals may have been different among parties, but they have been ideals.

Who shall say that an association of nations is different from a league? And who shall say that the aims of the present conference of the limitation of armament are different from those of Mr. Wilson, who demanded that a condition of world peace be "adequate guarantees . . . that national armaments will be reduced to the lowest point consistent with domestic safety?"

It is only when time is plentiful that men will stop in the midst of a task and ask "Are we idealists?"

They did not propose the question during the war, though they were grateful when the ideal for which they fought had its expression in the word "democracy."

Yet there was no need of a name. We were fighting for an ideal whether or not our vocabulary restricted our ability to express it. The world and we never doubted our idealism then.

Ideals Still Live

And now, though the heat of political strife has often scorched all in its trail, idealism is no more dead than is truth or love or daylight. The idealism of today is the idealism of yesterday, the idealism of the Emancipation Proclamation and of the Declaration of Independence.

Now is that idealism of a different quality as the product of Republicanism than it was when it emanated from the mind of a Democratic president.

It is to recognize the great principles of that master idealist—Woodrow Wilson—that the foundation in his honor is soon to be established, through an endowment that will be created by public subscription.

The Woodrow Wilson Foundation, through its campaign, will give to the friends of the broad idealism which Mr. Wilson voiced, the opportunity to establish a fund that may for all time be maintained intact, having its income devoted to the reward of those who have done what Mr. Wilson, himself, has done—rendered meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought, and peace through justice.

In order that there may be a definite assurance that the purposes of the foundation will be viewed with the proper vision in years to come, it has been decided that the trustees shall be 15 in number and shall be selected as nearly as possible from all sections of the country.

The trustees are to disburse the income of the endowment annually to the Jury of Awards composed of 25 members serving for a normal term of nine years.

LIFE BEGINS AT CENTURY MARK, SAYS OLDEST OF OLD TIMERS

BY ROY GIBBONS.
Chicago, Jan. 30.—Young at 50, efficient at 80, and securely happy at 100.

This is the motto of the "Borrowed Time Club" here, the members of which are all past 70.

The club is perhaps one of the most unique in the country and was founded by a group of octogenarians who took exception to the Biblical statement that after threescore years and 10 man is through.

Aim for Century Mark.

Each member is under solemn pledge to do nothing which might interfere with his or her attainment of the century mark.

A headquarters is maintained out of which propaganda is issued to stimulate an interest throughout the world in everyone to pass the threescore mark and live to fivescore at least.

Oldest of any "Borrowed Time" is Mrs. Lucia D'Episy, who has just celebrated her 100th birthday.

Says she:

"At 100 life has just begun, for at that age one really begins to think."

"Same Living" Maxim.

The name "Borrowed Time" was given the club because members say they are living on years loaned from the bank of life after using up their allotted 70.

About 100 members are enrolled.

"Same living" is their maxim to longevity.

SENSATIONAL DRAMA, "SHAME," BOOKED FOR CAPITOL THEATER

"Shame," the William Fox super-special which created a sensation in New York, has been booked by the Capitol Theater and will be shown there for two days, beginning tonight.

This is an announcement of importance, for the picture is conceded to be one of the biggest of the year. Its power of appeal was tested at a prominent Broadway theater, when it drew large crowds at every performance and made a tremendous impression.

"Shame" is the story of a young man, David Fielding, born in an alien land, who is brought back to the family home in San Francisco as a child after his father's tragic death. He inherits his grandfather's enormous wealth and becomes head of the big Fielding shipping interests. He marries a beautiful and talented woman, and is expecting paternity. Life, so far, has been kind to young Fielding.

From the country where the young shipping magnate was born comes a trader of evil reputation, who had been balked in some of his nefarious schemes by David's father. He finds the son and in revenge tells him he is a half-caste, son of William Fielding and a native woman in the far-away country. The trader threatens to tell the story unless David agrees to enter with him and his shipping facilities into a huge smuggling enterprise. David refuses indignantly, and laughs at the story of mixed blood. The trader then turns upon him, however, and finally drives him to take his infant child and flee from civilization to the snow-fields of Alaska. There he battles with a wolf and experiences other wild adventures. The mystery

LEGION WORKER IN CONGRESS

Hamilton Fish, Jr., One of Writers of Preamble to Constitution, Seeks Increase in Compensation.

The preamble to the constitution of the American Legion has been called one of the simplest, most effective and beautiful pronouncements in the English language.

Three men wrote it in St. Louis, Mo., in 1919 and it never has been, nor probably never will be, changed. The men were John Greenway of Arizona, Judge Davis of Oregon and Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York.

Mr. Fish is now in congress helping to put into effect the policy, recited by the preamble he helped write. He has a bill pending to increase the compensation from $20 to $50 for the nurses of blind, legless, armless and totally disabled ex-soldiers. He is an ardent advocate of reclamation of land through irrigation, to encourage service men to take up farming as a vocation.

At Harvard he was captain of the varsity football team. In France he led a company of negro soldiers in the Fifteenth New York Infantry and received the Croix de Guerre for bravery.

CATTLE PRICES UP THEN DOWN.
South St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 30.—The cattle market continued uneven and with light receipts here and elsewhere at the last week's opening, prices were strong to 25 cents higher. However, with a lull in the demand from the country for stockers and feeders on later days, the market weakened and all the early advance was lost with closing prices weak to 25 cents lower compared with a week ago. No good or choice beef steers are coming, but offerings of a medium grade increased, a good showing of shortfords being in last week's trade selling from $6.25 to $6.75 with a few part loads and individuals up around the $7 mark. Bulk of the beef steers at the close sold from $5.25 to $5.75 with commonest kinds down at $5 or slightly below. Although butcher she-stock has been scarce, prices have declined with bulk at the week's close selling at $3 to $4.75 and a fair showing on up to $5.50, very few reaching $8 or more. Canners and cutters closed at $2 to $3, Bologna bulls at $3.25 to $4.25. Veal calves scored another 50c advance this week, putting practical packer top at the close at $8.50.

Goodand choice stockers and feeders lost around 25c for the week and common and medium kinds 25 to 50 cents, bulk of stockers and feeders closing at $4.50 to $5.50, a few on the fat cattle order on up to $6.

The hog market made a net gain of about 50c last week, good light and butcher hogs closing at $5.35 to $5.75, heavy packing sows around $6.25 to $6.75, good pigs mostly $8.

Irregular gains of 50c to 75 cents this week, closing prices on good fat native and fed western lambs being $12 to $13, ewes, $6 to 7.25.

CATTLE PRICES UP THEN DOWN.
South St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 30.—The cattle market continued uneven and with light receipts here and elsewhere at the last week's opening, prices were strong to 25 cents higher. However, with a lull in the demand from the country for stockers and feeders on later days, the market weakened and all the early advance was lost with closing prices weak to 25 cents lower compared with a week ago. No good or choice beef steers are coming, but offerings of a medium grade increased, a good showing of shortfords being in last week's trade selling from $6.25 to $6.75 with a few part loads and individuals up around the $7 mark. Bulk of the beef steers at the close sold from $5.25 to $5.75 with commonest kinds down at $5 or slightly below. Although butcher she-stock has been scarce, prices have declined with bulk at the week's close selling at $3 to $4.75 and a fair showing on up to $5.50, very few reaching $8 or more. Canners and cutters closed at $2 to $3, Bologna bulls at $3.25 to $4.25. Veal calves scored another 50c advance this week, putting practical packer top at the close at $8.50.

Goodand choice stockers and feeders lost around 25c for the week and common and medium kinds 25 to 50 cents, bulk of stockers and feeders closing at $4.50 to $5.50, a few on the fat cattle order on up to $6.

The hog market made a net gain of about 50c last week, good light and butcher hogs closing at $5.35 to $5.75, heavy packing sows around $6.25 to $6.75, good pigs mostly $8.

Irregular gains of 50c to 75 cents this week, closing prices on good fat native and fed western lambs being $12 to $13, ewes, $6 to 7.25.

WHEAT HAS SETBACK

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Although the wheat-market made something of an advance at the start today on higher Liverpool quotations it soon declined on profit-taking sales. Opening prices which varied from 1-4 cent off to 1-2 cent advance were followed by a setback to well below Saturday's finish.

Subsequently the market took an upward swing influenced by reports of a cold wave and by a smallness of farm reserves of wheat and of mill and elevator stocks. Close firm 1-2 to 7-8 cents net higher.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR

Minneapolis, Jan. 30.—Flour unchanged to 29 cents higher. In carload lots 29 patents quoted at $7.25 to $7.50 a barrel. Shipments $7.19 barrels. Bran $20 to $21.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Cattle receipts 9,000. Steady to strong.

Hog receipts, 58,000. Mostly steady to 10 cents higher.

Sheep receipts 28,000, weak to 25 cents lower.

ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

South St. Paul, Jan. 30.—Cattle receipts 2,400. Slow, killing classes mostly steady. Common to medium beef steers $5 to $7.50. Bulk $3.25 to $6. Butcher cows and heifers mostly $4.75. Some better offerings of

MANDAN VICTOR IN BASKET PLAY BY CLOSE SCORE

Takes Contest Over Bismarck High School at Basketball By 22 to 20 Score

BIG CROWD SEES GAME

Second Defeat of Season for Bismarck Team Comes During Spectacular Play

In a game characterized by long shots and strong defensive work, Mandan high school's basketball team defeated Bismarck's team on the Mandan floor Saturday evening by a score of 22 to 20. A large crowd was present, the odds and corners of the floor being covered with people. This showed up the game considerably, making the ball out of the boundary very often. However the game was one of the first of the season, both the teams showing a high grade of basketball, especially during the last half.

The incapability of Bismarck to find the basket during the first half by long shots and the accuracy with which the Mandan forwards did locate the basket by the same method undoubtedly caused the visitors to take the short end of the score.

Newgaard and Nelson showed up well for Mandan with many long baskets to their credit, while Gray proved to be a fast floor worker. Burke and Scroggins also played good basketball.

First Half.
The game started with long shots by both teams, neither side scoring for the first few minutes. A foul was called on Bismarck. Nelson missed the free throw. Mandan advanced the ball and Newgaard made a basket from the side of the floor, the ball going through without touching the rim. In the next minute Gray shot from the corner of the floor and Mandan had a 4 to 0 lead. By following in a long shot Kludt scored for Bismarck. The game then settled down and for several minutes each team shot and missed one after the other. A foul was called on Bismarck and Nelson made the free throw and a few seconds Newgaard made a basket. Bismarck came back with a basket by Nelson and another following by Burke. Another foul was called on Bismarck. Nelson missed the free throw but in the minute that followed Mandan made a basket. Nelson followed in a long shot, scoring for Bismarck. Newgaard made a long shot and scored for Mandan. Burke followed it with a basket for Bismarck and the first half ended with Mandan in the lead 13 to 10.

Second Half.
The second half started with good defensive play and a different style of offense for Bismarck. Nelson scored for Bismarck after working the ball down the floor. Gray of Mandan scored immediately after him. A foul was called on Bismarck and Nelson made the free throw. Newgaard scored for Mandan and Bismarck called time out. Love and Mandan made a basket. Doyle of Bismarck scored by a basket. Bismarck started a spurt which aimed at the score. Burke making two baskets in a short time. A foul was called on Mandan and Nelson missed the free throw. A few minutes later Nelson of Mandan made a spectacular shot from center the ball going through without touching the rim. Bismarck took the ball down the floor and Nelson scored. Mandan started to pass under Bismarck's basket only a few minutes being left to play. Bismarck called time out with thirty seconds to play. Scroggins shot from the center. The ball hit the rim, rolled around it and dropped off. The game ended Mandan 22, Bismarck 20.

Washburn Town Team Is Victor Over Coleharbor

Washburn, N. D., Jan. 20.—Before a crowded house the town team from Coleharbor received a most convincing defeat at the hands of the town team from this place, Friday evening. The local team showed a complete reversal of form since their game at Coleharbor, where they were defeated by a decisive score. During the first half the locals displayed some of the fastest passing and most clever basket shooting that has ever been seen on the local floor. Washburn's forwards, Peterson brothers, seeming to be able to score at will piling up a total of 36 points to their opponents 11. During the second half Washburn seemed to lack the speed and teamwork displayed during the first half, and this coupled with clever guarding by Coleharbor kept the score more even. Coleharbor netted two more points than Washburn. The game was fast, and exceptionally clean considering the strong rivalry existing between the two towns, there being only five fouls called during the game. The close guarding of Thorstenson who held Coleharbor's fast forward, Vogel, to ten baskets featured the game. Summary and lineup:

Washburn. Coleharbor.
A. Peterson. R. F. Vogel.
C. Peterson. L. F. Stedman.
Everson. L. G. Miller.
Thorstenson. R. G. Lundin.
Robinson. L. G. Blaha.
Substitutes: Elismann for Blaha.
Goals from field: Washburn, A. Peterson 13, C. Peterson 8, Everson 3, Thorstenson 1, Robinson 4, Coleharbor: Vogel 6, Stedman 8, Lundin 1. Free throws: Robinson, 0 out of 2; Stedman, 2 out of 3. Referee—Schweizer.

TOWN RIVALRY BROUGHT HELP FROM COLLEGES

Football Game Which Resulted in Big Betting Cause of Disqualification of Player

NINE U. OF I. MEN OUT

(Chicago, Jan. 20.—(By the Associated Press.) The bitter rivalry between two country towns, which became so acute that approximately $100,000 was bet on a football game, was the real cause of the athletic scandal which resulted in the disqualification of nine University of Illinois athletes and which threatened to reach into Notre Dame university.

A group of citizens of Carlinville, Illinois, it was learned decided last night to financially "clean out" the rival town of Taylorville, Illinois, by obtaining ten college stars to play on their football team and with victory apparently assured, to bet the limit on the annual contest between the two eleven's, but Taylorville learned of the plan, obtained nine college stars for its own team and not only defeated Carlinville but won close to $50,000 by covering every Carlinville bet made, thus beating the rival town at its own game.

Ten Notre Dame players were in the Carlinville lineup, according to statements by citizens of that town while the nine Illinois men disqualified played on the Taylorville eleven.

Desch, Mohardt Take Part
In the Carlinville lineup, according to persons associated with the team was Desch, member of the American Olympic team and world champion 40-yard hurdler; Chester Wynne, selected by some as all-western conference fullback; and John Mohardt, all-American selection of several football writers. All played on the Notre Dame eleven last fall. In 1921 Carlinville won from Taylorville, 10 to 7, at Carlinville. Taylorville at that time loudly boasted that next year, with the team on its home ground, there would be a different story.

Several Carlinville people then conceived the "safe betting" idea of filling their lineup with college stars. Overtures were made to Notre Dame men, according to backers of the Carlinville team, and it was agreed to pay the ten men $200 each plus their expenses, the total coming to $2,700.

The persons who arranged the affair passed the word to their friends to bet the limit. These friends went to the bank, the family stocking and the cupboard to bring forth, in some cases, the savings of years. A special train was hired and a band taken along on the trip to Taylorville. Farmers from all the nearby towns arranged to join the pilgrimage and in nearly every case a well filled wallet was taken along, the clinking of the coins becoming a common gossip.

Game Too "Confidential"
But each person who received the "confidential" information, apparently passed it on to another friend, or gradually the word spread into Taylorville. At the same time Taylorville received word that Carlinville was ready to back its team with the family jewels if necessary. Consternation spread through Taylorville at the idea of sending their team against nationally known college players. Then a few citizens decided to seek a little college aid themselves.

Quietly the word was passed around not to fear Carlinville—that means of defeating their rival's plans had been found. Taylorville in the first half used its regular home town team. At the end of the half, Taylorville led, 7 to 0. Then out on the field trotted nine stars from the University of Illinois. They had been held under cover for the first two periods.

Little Sternaman ran circles around the Carlinville ends. Jack Crangle plunged through the line and Larry Walquist forward passed for big gains. The game ended with Taylorville winner, 16 to 0, fifty thousand dollars in cash to the good, and Carlinville out an equal sum.

Best Wilson, grocery store owner at Carlinville, said that Carlinville had no hard feelings against Taylorville over the game. "We got beat at our own game," he said.

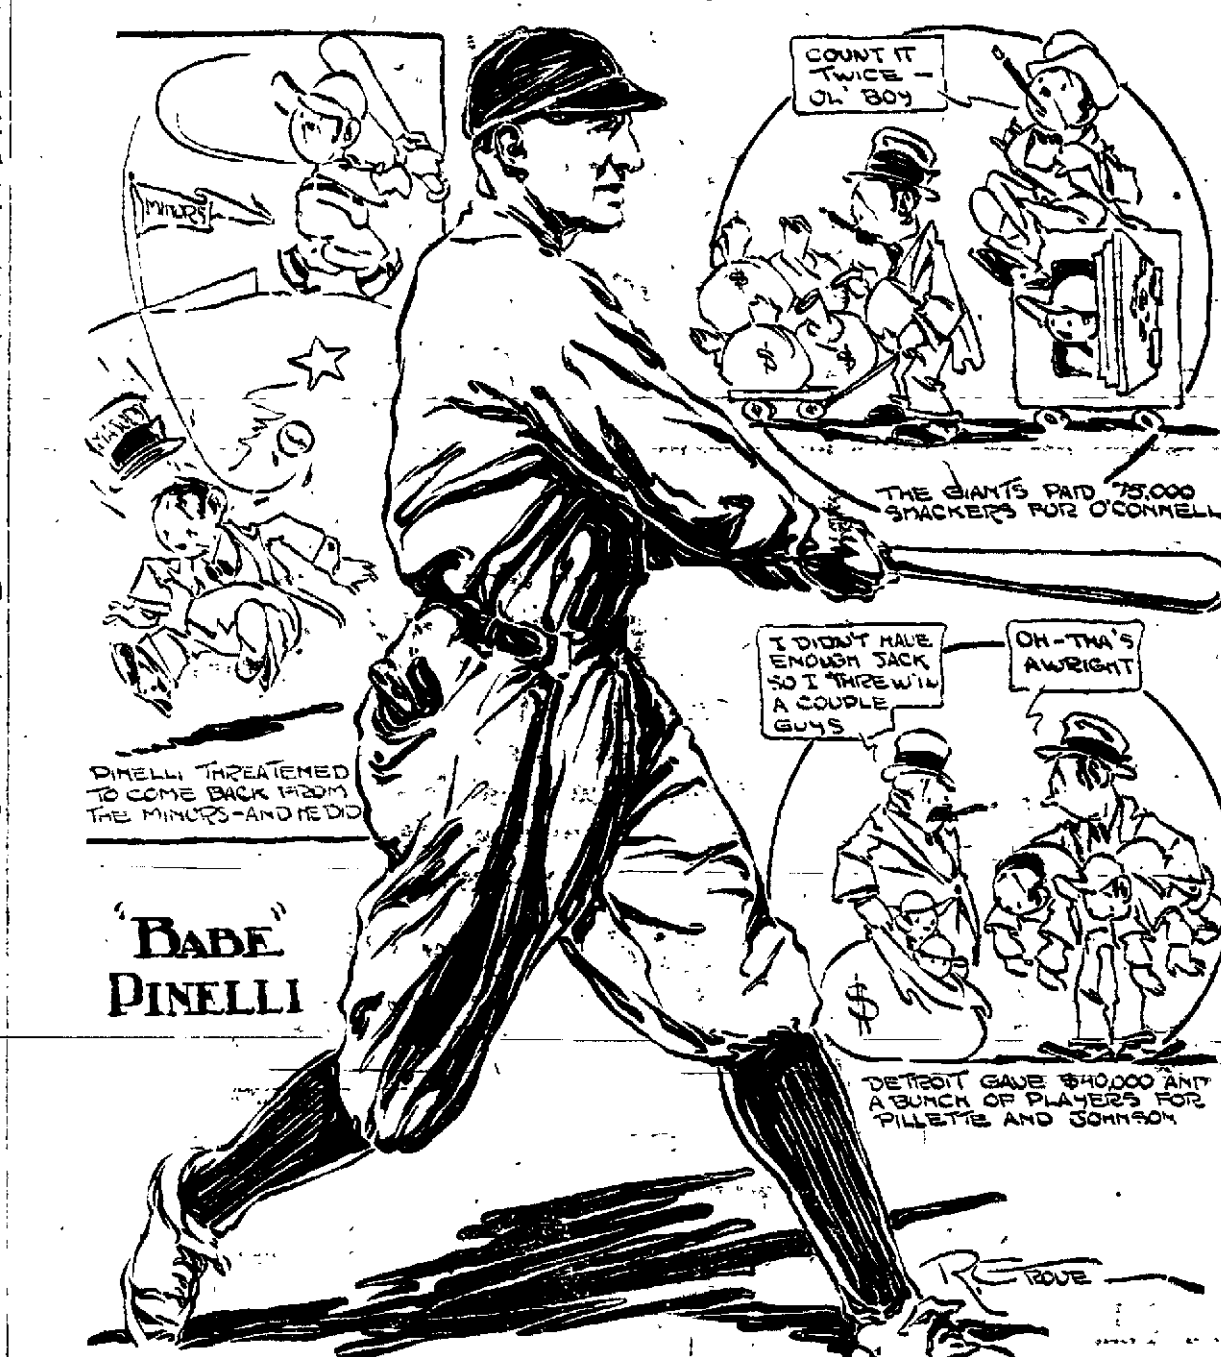

NOTRE DAME MEN CONFESS.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 20.—(By the Associated Press.) Eight Notre Dame university athletes today voluntarily confessed to Father William Carey, chairman of the athletic board, and K. Rockne, football coach, that they played in the semi-professional game at Taylorville, Ill., Nov. 27, 1921, with the Carlinville team. They were immediately disqualified from further athletic competition at Notre Dame. The eight men included Eddie Anderson, Mason City, Ia., all-American end; Chester Wynne, Oriskany, Kan., all-western conference fullback; selection of several football writers; Roger Kiley, Chicago, varsity end; captain of the basketball team and star track man; Lawrence Shaw, Stewart, Ia., varsity tackle and western champion shot-putter.

STEELE IS WINNER

Steele, N. D.—Steele High School Basketball team won over Jamestown college academy by a score of 19 to 8. The first half was fast and clean. Steele having the long end of the score, 14 to 2. The Jamestown High School team will play here Saturday, February 4.

MANY MAJOR LEAGUE CLUBS BANKING ON RECRUITS

BY BILLY EVANS

Paying a fancy price for a ball player immediately causes that individual to be a much talked-about person.

In most cases the publicity given a player through the medium of some club owner paying a fancy price for him reacts to the detriment of the player.

The public immediately gets an impression of the player that compares with the price paid for his services. Fandom at once decides that a player able to command such big money, ought to make good from the start. Detroit once had "Babe" Pinelli. The White Sox also looked him over for a brief time. Detroit turned him back to the coast last year. When he left the Tigers his parting words were:

"I'll be back inside of two years if making an effort will get me anywhere. Maybe I will take a whirl at the National League this time, since I've had two cracks at the American."

Pinelli certainly made good his threat. He is back in the majors inside of a year, this time with the Na-

VICK PLAYS SEVEN HOURS OF FOOTBALL College Work Made It Impossible To Practice WINS BERTH ON ALL-AMERICAN ELEVEN

Seven hours of football was enough for Ernie Vick of Michigan to win a place on Walter Camp's All-American eleven.

Vick played four years at Michigan, one of them under the Students' Army Training Corps rule. Never once did he have time taken out.

The Michigan athletes assembled at Ann Arbor on September 15 of last fall, but Vick was not among them. Work apart from his college course, kept him from reporting to Coach Vost until two weeks after practice had started.

Vick enrolled in the medical school on his arrival. That is a hard course and it was work from morning until night.

His final class of the day was over at 5 in the evening, which made it too late for him to get in to uniform and report for practice.

Night after night the substitute center ran through the signals with the varsity. On days when games were scheduled Vick would don his uniform and play the center position.

Allowing that there were seven conference games on Michigan's grid schedule in the fall, it can safely be

DAVE SHADE COMES FROM FIGHTING FAMILY

Dave Shade, who will meet Jack Britton in New York on the night of February 17, for the welterweight title, comes from a fighting family.

There are three Shades in the fist game, and all of them are championship contenders. They hail from California, and on the coast are known as the "Fighting Shades."

Dave, who meets Britton, is 19 years old and has been fighting only two years. He started as a bantamweight, and has gradually passed through that class as well as the featherweight and lightweight. He is now a full-fledged welter and still growing.

George is the oldest of the trio of Shades. He is 22 years of age. He has been in the fight game five years. George started as a lightweight. He has developed into a middleweight, and is now yearning for a chance to

NICK RECALLS SOME RARE BITS OF IVORY

BY NICK ALTROCK.
What do I regard as the biggest "bone" play in baseball?

There have been so many ivory stunts pulled off late years that it is rather hard to decide.

Stealing third base with the bases filled is always worth a laugh. A lot of players have pulled that stunt. However, to John Anderson, who national League. Cincinnati paid $10,000 for him and gave several players to boot.

George Sisler, recently back from playing 10 weeks in the winter league on the coast, was asked what he thought of Pinelli's chances.

Is Hustling Ball Player
"He is a hustling ball player," said Sisler, "and hustling ball players always have a chance. There is Jimmy Austin of our club for instance. They have been trying to replace Jimmy at third for years, but he always kept on hustling and was a tough man to displace."

"I hope Pinelli makes good. I believe he will. However, I saw several other infielders on the coast who looked like $20,000 propositions to me, based on present market values."

Then there is O'Connell for whom the Giants paid $75,000. Major league ball players who saw him perform on the coast say he will have to improve his fielding a lot to hold a major league berth. They admit he can hit.

Then there are the two pitchers, Pilette and Johnson, for whom Detroit paid $40,000 and a bunch of players.

One American League scout, in speaking of their chances to make good says: "Johnson has a great fast ball with a wonderful hop to it. He has a fine chance to deliver."

Pilette has good stuff, but a stiff knee. American League hitters will keep him busy laying down bunts. I saw him pitch several games, and he looked worse on bunts than Yorke of the Chicago Cubs, Harris of the Athletics or Sotheron of Cleveland."

Praise from Duffy Lewis
Then there is Duffy Lewis, who led the Pacific Coast League in batting. The former American League star in speaking of Pilette and Johnson says:

"Detroit has acquired two fine prospects. Both have the stuff. Each has a fine fast ball so necessary to success in the big show. Pilette suffered an injury to his knee in mid-season that hampered him a lot, but at the close of the season he seemed to have entirely recovered."

These recruits will be much watched in their major league debuts largely because of the publicity given the fancy price they brought in the baseball market."

most every game in the majors some player does the same trick. Some escape, others are caught at it. If the neglect to touch the base has no effect on the score it is forgotten.

Merkle was unfortunate. His play cost the New York team the pennant, and with it the right to play in the world series. That made it a very costly mistake. That play is generally regarded as the biggest bone in baseball, simply because it was so costly.

When a player bats out of order and is called out for so doing, it makes a player feel like taking to the woods. If the paves makes a base hit, it is all the tougher because the athletes like their base hits. If the player happens to make a home run while hitting out of order, it is well nigh a catastrophe.

Last year in a game at Washington Harry Heilmann hit the ball into the far end of the left field bleachers. It was a terrible drive, the first time a ball was ever hit into that stand. Then it was discovered that Heilmann had batted in place of Veach. The two players had been transferred in the batting order and were not notified of the change.

Heilmann of course was in no way to blame. It was not a boner as far as he was concerned. However, it was the longest "boner" I ever saw made. I am positive of that.

Baseball is such an intricate game that it constantly offers chances to err. "Boners" are part of the game. To me, however, the day Doc Gessler caught a fly ball in the ninth with a couple of runners on the bases and ran to the club house thinking the game was over, when in reality only two were down, was the funniest boner I can recall in the history of the game. There was real humor to that stunt.

SPORT ANGLE

The sport pages carried a very interesting item the other day. "The Pacific Coast League has decided to use the rubber-center ball the coming season" read the news item.

On the surface perhaps there doesn't appear to be anything unusual about such an item, yet to the ball player and manager, as well as club owner, it carried an important message.

It has always been customary for the baseball leagues to use a standard ball.

At one time the rubber-center ball was generally used. Then by experiment the manufacturers of baseballs went to the use of the cork-center ball.

This was regarded as a step forward in the manufacture of baseballs. Practically all the leagues, as well as the amateurs and semi-professionals, shifted to the cork center. There is no question but that the action of the rubber center and cork center are different. Ball players will tell you there is a different feel to the ball. That is their way of explaining it.

The Pacific Coast League is one of the three big minor leagues. Its ranking is just a shade below the major leagues.

For so big a league to adopt a ball that will differ from the ball in general use, is of great interest to those interested in baseball from a playing and business standpoint.

There will be an air of uncertainty attached to the records made in the coast league, because of the use of a ball that is different from the general accepted type.

Whether or not there is anything to it, the rubber-center ball will be given as the reason for all things good or bad, that happen in the coast league this year.

JACK BRITTON IS OLDEST OF FISTIC TITLE HOLDERS

Jack Britton, who holds the welterweight title, was born at Clinton, N. Y., October 14, 1885. His given name is William J. Breslin. His nationality is Irish-American. Britton has been fighting 13 years. He started his pugilistic career in 1904 with a knockout. Britton came into national prominence as a fighter in 1912, when he met some of the best men in the country in his class. Britton has had the unique experience of losing his title to Ted Lewis on a decision and winning it back two years later from the same fighter via the knockout route. Fistic experts regard Britton as the marvel of the ring. His winning back the title after losing it to Lewis came after he had been pronounced through because of illness which had apparently undermined his health. Britton is the oldest champion. He will be 37 his next birthday. At that age most fighters are through. Britton is champion and going as well as ever. Britton has a dangerous punch, but has never been known as a knock-out. He is very clever and is content to win on points, rather than sacrifice his hands in always attempting a knockout. If Britton is able to hold off Dave Shade and retain his title, a bout with Benny Leonard is almost a certainty within the next six months.

JUDGE AMIDON IS RECOVERING

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 30.—Judge Charles F. Amidon of the United States district court, who has been quite ill with pneumonia in Los Angeles, is now completely out of danger, according to advices received today at the federal building.

Judge Amidon contracted a severe cold early this month in making an eight mile ride in the open car to meet his wife who had been visiting in Chicago. On Jan. 7, the physician found pneumonia symptoms, and on the following day it was found that the entire left lung was involved. Writing of his illness, Judge Amidon said:

"Of course, there is comfort in the fact that I have a constitution that can recover from pneumonia at 65."
